He's of a mind to protect the land.

They'll have a meeting of the minds at their local SWCD.

Stop by your local Soil and Water Conservation District, and you'll learn how some conservation practices improve production and, with federal and state cost-sharing, can be affordable, too. Experienced staff at your district office can recommend practices that fit your situation. Answer any questions that come up. And help you apply for funding. Because successful farmers know conservation makes good business sense.
