

THE WAY IT WAS — This is an airplane view of Oconeechee Island in 1949 before it was flooded as a result of the construction of John H. Kerr half-mile wide and 3-1/2 miles long. There was a ramp leading off the bridge onto the island as well as a fower house and a barn.